SLAVE, HIRELING, FRIEND.

A slave's behaviour is governed by fear, fear of the power of the slave owner, fear of pain, punishment or degradation.

A hireling works for reward, always being careful to ensure the reward by reliable behaviour or perhaps even by deceit.

A friend is inspired by love. Love is a gift freely shared, given and received. It evokes commitment and permanence. It is the source and cornerstone of the greatest generosity, heroic courage, enduring dedication, merciful forgiveness and hope. It leads to inner peace and joy.

Our God is love. God is a community of love relationships that we call Father, Son and Holy Spirit. It is the mystery of that inner life of God that we celebrate today. A mystery is experienced rather than proved. It is appreciated rather than explained. It is described rather than defined.

The Good News is that each one of us is invited to live in that love life and to imitate it in our own relationships. One of the last prayers of Jesus was to ask the Father to love you and me with the very same love as the Father loves Jesus himself.

There can be traces of slavish fear in our relationship with the Almighty God. Sometimes we can be coaxed to goodness by the lure of great rewards like any hireling. This is the carrot and stick approach to God.

God offers something much more enriching, a loving friendship. There is always a temptation to slip back into the slavery of selfishness. It is only Jesus who can lead us on the life long journey from slavery to the freedom of personal friendship with God. Faith is friendship with God. It is His own brand. It is today's special offer. Why settle for less?
